OFFICE OF THE MAYOR

Public statement

A simple step toward fairer hours at Gotham town hall

Residents and staff have heard a great deal about the Time Manager project this month, not all of it accurate. Here is what it actually is, and why we are building it.

Our employees asked for clearer, fairer tracking of their working hours. The union raised that request directly, and we are responding with a tool built around it, not around surveillance. Every screen in the app was reviewed with employee representatives before a single line was written.

What it is

A simple clock-in, clock-out tool, and nothing else.

What it is not

Location tracking, performance scoring, or disciplinary monitoring.

Who shaped it

Employee representatives, department managers, and the development team together.

> "Town hall exists to serve residents well, and that starts with treating the people who work here fairly. This tool is a small, concrete step in that direction, and we built it with the union, not around them."
>
> Office of the mayor, City of Gotham

Press inquiries and resident questions are welcome at any time.

press@gotham-townhall.gov